NO ARRESTS ON V-J DAY HERE; POLICE PRAISE VETS' CONDUCT

Adams county's "Welcome Home" Day was unmarred by a single arrest, according to borough and state police, and only one minor automobile accident was reported. Police estimated that there were between 16,000 and 17,000 persons in Gettysburg Wednesday, but the crowds were orderly and gave authorities no trouble whatever, Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster said.

Four children "turned up missing" and reported to police, but all were found again. A two-and-a-half year-old child was reported missing by her mother in the afternoon, but at the time the report was made, the child was at the first aid station on the college grounds in the care of state police there. When the mother went there for her, the child wanted to stay with the officers.

Three other children, 4, 5 and 11 years old, went to the theatre in the afternoon, and in the evening attended the band concert on Nixon field. They were unable later to find their parents, and the parents, a Littlestown couple, were unable to find them. Police took them to headquarters in the Murphy building. The father was located at 1 a. m. at the sheriff's office.

Praise for Veterans

Chief Harpster and Lt. Frank C. Miner, Harrisburg, in charge of the special detail of 12 extra state troopers from Harrisburg who aided in directing traffic and other duties Wednesday, were high in their praise of the veterans and others for their orderliness.

"It was a perfect day," Chief Harpster said today. "The police department appreciates the cooperation and good behavior of the veterans throughout the celebration, and wishes also to extend its thanks to the Welcome Home committee and all others for their cooperation. We had no trouble of any kind."

The police spent many long hours on duty Wednesday. Until after the parade, all seven members of the borough police force were on duty. Officers C. William Zhea and Kenneth Tawney were released after the parade. Both are veterans. Chief Harpster and Officers Charles W. Culp, Jr., Clark W. Staley, Paul B. Shealer and Albert Wolford remained on duty until after midnight. Harpster took the desk at headquarters Wednesday night. A cot was provided for Wolford, also a World War II veteran, who was on reserve there. Staley, Culp and Shealer were on patrol.

Handled Heavy Traffic

At 10 p. m. officers reported finding a three-year-old child tied by a harness to a scales on Center Square. They located the parents eating in a nearby restaurant.

State and borough police were fed at the booth served by the Gettysburg food committee on the college field. During the fireworks display, officers directed traffic, established safety zones on the Mummasburg and Biglerville roads, and aided in keeping the hundreds of cars moving as rapidly as possible after the display.

There were hundreds of cars parked to watch the fireworks, on Oak Ridge, Mummasburg road, Biglerville road and adjacent highways and streets. They formed a continuous line of headlights as the celebration came to a conclusion.

No Cars Towed

Chief Harpster said no difficulty was experienced, either in re-routing traffic during the parade, or with parked automobiles. No cars had to be towed away. One was pushed to a side street from Chambersburg street, and two, which were parked off the roadway on Carlisle street, were tagged, he said.

State troopers at the west end of town, at Buford avenue and Confederate avenue, and at Confederate avenue at the top of Springs avenue hill, shut off traffic at 1:25 p. m. and re-routed it by way of Middle street. Similar re-routing was made at York and Stratton streets and on other streets leading to the parade route.

COMMITTEE TO MEET

Plans for a campaign trip and arrangements for the fall program are scheduled for discussion at a meeting of the committee of the Catholic Boy Scout troop, its chairman, Dr. Joseph H. Riley, announced today. The meeting will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the troop rooms rear of East High street.

SELLS PROPERTY

Marshall W. Bigham, of Gettysburg, R 2, has sold a property in Cumberland township, near the Gettysburg water works, to John J. Miller and Alice V. Miller, of Philadelphia. Possession will be given November 15. The sale was made through John C. Bream.

Brame, Brehm, Bream Reunion will be held at Willow Mills Park, Cumberland County, Pa., Saturday, August 17.

Women Of Moose Name Delegates

The Women of the Moose held their regular meeting Tuesday evening at the Moose home on York street with the senior regent, Margaret Bender, presiding.

The lodge decided to send Virginia Lawver as a delegate to the national convention to be held in Chicago later this month. It was also decided that three delegates, Enola Evans, Thelma Yingling and Fern Myers, would represent the local group at the state convention which will be held at Easton on Labor Day.

Chairmen of the following committees reported at the meeting: home making, membership, Moose Heart alumnae, publicity and war relief. The next meeting will be held on August 27.

LITTLESTOWN SPORTSMEN HOLD MEETING

The Littlestown Fish and Game association held a meeting Tuesday evening at the Dennis Hofe cottage, Starner's dam, with W. E. Stites, president, in charge of the business meeting. He thanked all those who helped to make the recent carnival a success. Although the affair was rained out one of the two nights, a net profit of $488 was realized.

The group voted a donation of $25 to the baseball team; $25 to the Playground Association; $5 to the Alpha Fire Company; and $5 to St. Aloysius' Hall. The balance of the money was used to buy 200 ringneck pheasants which were released in this vicinity Saturday. All birds released during the past year have been banded, and the name of the association plus a number were enclosed within the band. Prizes will be given to hunters who return certain numbers. The group expects to learn in this way where the birds go after being released, and their age when caught.

Refreshments were served following the business meeting. The committee in charge consisted of Edgar Yealy, Jr., Raymond Spangler, and George Cool.

The next meeting will be held in St. John's woods, and a corn bake will be held in connection with the

More Than 10,000 Witness Two-Mile 'Welcome Home' Parade Here On V-J Day

A "welcome home" crowd of Adams countians conservatively estimated at upwards of 10,000 persons witnessed the two-mile long parade which preceded the exercises, ball games and other festivities of the county's V-J Day anniversary celebration here Wednesday afternoon.

They jammed sidewalks, porches and every other point of vantage along the entire route of the parade, from the Meade school through Chambersburg street, the square, Carlisle street and West Lincoln avenue to the college stadium, where the exercises were held, and cheered and applauded the hundreds of veterans of World War II, the veterans of other wars and the other marchers, and the many floats and other vehicles which made up the most colorful parade spectacle seen here since the Blue and Gray reunion.

The stadium was filled to its capacity of 2,200 shortly after the parade units reached the end of the line of march, another 2,000 or more stood throughout the ceremonies, and another record crowd jammed all the available space to watch the ball game on the adjacent field.

Cheers for Veterans

Parade units formed promptly, and at exactly 1:30 p. m., right on schedule, Chief Marshal LeRoy H. Winebrenner gave the starting signal, and the parade moved off from Springs and Buford avenues on its way through the cheering and enthusiastic crowds, led by Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster and two state police, Robert Dietrich of the Gettysburg sub-station and C. E. Waltemyer, of Harrisburg, on motorcycles.

Behind the escort came Chief Marshal Winebrenner and two of his aides, Eugene Phiel and Ralph Trimmer, on horseback. They were followed by the Blue and Gray band of Gettysburg. The color guard of the William Steffy camp, United Spanish War Veterans, members of the post and auxiliary, the latter in automobiles, were next in line, followed by the massed colors of American Legion posts in the hands of World War II veterans, and then the veterans of this war themselves, more than 500 of them. They were cheered almost continuously all along the line of march.

Almost every branch of the service was represented among those who marched in this division. There were sailors, in natty blue or white; WAVES stepping smartly along with WACs and members of the Marine corps auxiliary, nurses, SPARs and others. Members of the Albert J. Lentz Post No. 202, American Legion, brought up the rear. The colors of the Veterans of Foreign Wars posts were next in line, followed by another large contingent of service men and women.

Letterkenny Display

What was probably the largest float in the parade, and one which attracted much comment, was the Littlestown float, depicting the grave of a soldier, with a firing squad and a bugler standing on the green sod surrounding the white wooden cross above the mound of earth.

New Violence Threatened In Palestine

Jerusalem, Aug. 15 (AP)— Terrorists threatened for a second time to bomb the general post-office of Palestine today after Jews were exhorted to revolt against Great Britain by the outlawed Irgun Zvai Leumi organization.

The building was emptied as it was last night and communications systems throughout Palestine were disrupted for more than an hour. Bombs were not found in either case.

From 50,000 to 200,000 armed British forces stood guard in the mandate awaiting possible trouble from the Jews, aroused because illegal Jewish immigrants were being deported to Cyprus.

Another 800 illegal immigrants reached Haifa aboard a 300-ton schooner after a 21-day voyage. All faced deportation under the British policy to halt lawless entrance into the country in which the Arab population is dominant.

Irgun Zvai Leumi, which asserted authorship of the King David hotel bombing last month in which 91 persons were killed, called on the Jews to revolt in a broadcast from an outlawed radio transmitter.

The broadcast, made over a secret radio station, urged unification of Irgun, Hagana and the so-called "Stern Gang"—similar resistance organizations—into a single Jewish army under an underground Zionist government.

Gen. Devers Points Way To Security For America; Decorates County Veteran; Memorial Service For War Dead

A five-point program to be followed by the United States in attaining national security and promoting world peace was outlined by General Jacob L. Devers, commanding general of the Army Ground Forces, in a challenging address which featured Welcome Home Day exercises in Memorial stadium at Gettysburg college Wednesday afternoon.

Following the general's address, the thousands gathered in the stadium saw an Adams county veteran honored with the presentation of the Bronze Star medal by General Devers and then participated in a brief but impressive memorial service in tribute to the 118 county men who gave their lives in the service of their country in World War II.

"Has Faith In America"

"We must put our own house in order. We must clarify and define our course of action in international affairs. We must have a knowledge of other nations, their thinking and motives. We must work to establish a world organization and we must see that our armed forces have the means to accomplish their missions," General Devers declared.

After warning that the day of isolationism is past and that the United States has a great responsibility in helping to build the peace, the speaker declared he is "confident and optimistic that America will accept the opportunity we won in war.

"I believe this because I believe in America—in her people and in her leadership. We will work as we have worked in the past, in American teamwork. And we will win the peace," he concluded.

Decorates County Vet

At the conclusion of his address, General Devers turned to the "pleasant duty" of fastening the Bronze Star on the chest of former Pfc. Walter Mark Johns, Mummasburg, who as a machinegunner in the 42nd (Rainbow) Division of the Seventh Army, fought on the Western Front under the command of General Devers.

After describing the Seventh Army fighting on the southern end of the Western Front as "some of the bloodiest and hardest in the war," he read the citation in which Johns was commended for "outstanding courage and aggressive leadership" as a squad leader in action near Philipsburg, France, on March 16, 1945.

After fastening the medal on Johns' uniform, the uniformed men exchanged salutes, there was a handclasp, and General Devers said: "I certainly congratulate you." Mrs. Johns, who is an employe of The Gettysburg Times, sat beside her husband on the speakers' stand.

Memorial Rites Impressive

The simple memorial service opened with a moment of silence, concluded by the singing of the first and last stanzas of "America" by Miss Louise McDannell, Arendtsville, accompanied by Mrs. S. F. Snyder of Gettysburg.

Then Rabbi Leonard J. Rothstein, of York, who is the successor there to Rabbi Good who went down with his ship in the North Atlantic during the war, read the Ninetieth Psalm, followed it with a poem on immortality and concluded with the Mourners' prayer, first in Hebrew and then in English.

He was followed at the rostrum by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick F. McGee, of McSherrystown, who told the crowd "It is good to pause in our celebration today and to turn our thoughts to God because all of you have surely thought much of God in these last years. We went to God in our time of trial," he continued, "and God must have a place in our peace.

Calls for Prayers for Peace

"It seems a shame that after God has answered our prayers for victory and the safe return of our loved ones, that we should seek peace without Him. Freedom of Religion was one of the Four Freedoms for which we fought but now there seems to be no one to stand up at the peace tables and call men to their knees in prayer."

He paid tribute to the "great ideal of unselfish service" displayed in war time and concluded with these words: "Let your spiritual efforts rise to God that true and lasting peace may come to all people of the world."

The final memorial speaker was Dr. Harvey D. Hoover, of the Gettysburg Lutheran Theoligical seminary, who called upon the people to "bow your heads in appreciation to those who are no longer on this earth, those who were injured in spirit by the war, those who were wounded in mind or impaired in body."

Sympathy "For Aching Hearts"

He expressed sympathy for "the aching hearts of friends and loved ones" whose soldiers never returned. He concluded with a prayer of "thanksgiving for the blessings of the God of Mercy."

Then at the call of the presiding officer, Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college, the crowd stood, faced the west and "bowed in dedication" as Mrs. Henry M. Scharf, Gettysburg, sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Three volleys by a firing squad and "Taps" sounded by Sgt. W. L. Baldwin concluded the service.

"Thanks" from Judge

In his opening remarks Judge W. C. Sheely, chairman of the general committee on arrangements for the celebration outlined plans for the remaining events on the day's program and told the veterans: "This is your day. The people of Adams county have set aside this first anniversary of V-J Day as a day of Thanksgiving to God for your safe return and a day on which they might demonstrate, in a small way what you did for them. It is their way of saying: 'Thank you for a job well done; we are glad you are home again.'"

He extended his thanks to all who helped with the celebration by contributing money, time and effort, pointing out that on the committees alone more than 200 countians served. He expressed special thanks to Gettysburg college for the use of its grounds and presented the college president as presiding officer for the afternoon.

Doctor Hanson told the crowd Gettysburg college "is honored" to assist with the celebration. Referring briefly to the anxious days of the war when boys and girls from Adams county served on every front of the war. "Today our sons and daughters have come back to our hearts and homes and we are grateful to a kindly Providence," he said.

Tribute to Gen. Devers

"We bow in gratitude for the more than 100 county boys who sacrificed their lives," he asserted and reminded the audience that: "We know that America will be safe as long as her men and women are willing to dare anything for their nation's future."

In presenting General Devers, Doctor Hanson described him as "a man we admire for his achievements and love for his character."

Entertainment Enjoyed

With the conclusion of the exercises in the stadium, registration stands north and south of the college gymnasium were swamped with veterans seeking to register and secure their dance and supper tickets.

The crowd thronged Nixon field where the New York Black Yanks and the Baltimore Elite Giants, of the National Colored baseball league, already were playing before a crowd that completely circled the field. The veterans' softball game followed at 6 o'clock on the same field.

By 5 o'clock the supper stands in the college field north of Broadway received their wave of veterans and their families and the dispensing of sandwiches, coffee, lemonade and ice cream continued until 8 o'clock although the rush was over before 7 p. m.

The board also voted to send the seventh and eighth grade pupils of the township, numbering about 20, to the junior-senior high school in New Oxford, for the first time, and decided to organize its two-room schools on a consolidated, rather than a one-room basis. abled veterans, and then the New Oxford and Littlestown high school bands followed this float. The display of army equipment from Letterkenny concluded the division. This latter consisted of several army trucks and half-tracks, a "duck" and a "weasel," tanks, guns and an ambulance, together with an ordnance display mounted on a large truck. This equipment was later exhibited on the college grounds.

Bands, Guard, Red Cross

Julius Swope and Ray Staley, marshal's aides, rode at the head of the Second Division, on horseback, followed by the Gettysburg High school band, then members of Troop C of the Pennsylvania State guard, Gettysburg, on foot, and the motorized equipment of the troop.

Following the state guard came automobiles bearing Mrs. LeRoy H. Winebrenner, chairman of the Adams county chapter of the Red Cross; Miss Margaret MacMillan, executive secretary; Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars, war-time chairman of the chapter; Mrs. Henry M. Sharf, chairman of the nurses' aides, Miss Dorothy Foth, captain of the nurses' aides, and others.

Boy and Girl Scouts, Cubs and Brownie troops of the county made up the remainder of this division. They were headed by the drum and bugle corps of Troop 79 of Gettysburg.

A float, depicting a campfire scene, entered by the Senior Girl Scouts of Gettysburg, completed the Second Division.

The third division was headed by Carl and Price Oyler on horseback, and included the Biglerville High school band, with its color guard, girls dressed in white, and its majorettes, and then came the volunteer fire companies of the county, with the Gettysburg firemen first in line, with 28 marching members and its four pieces of motor equipment.

Long Section of Floats

Following in order were the Aspers, Cashtown, Union Fire company, Bendersville, Arendtsville, Bonneauville, Fairfield, and Alpha fire company, Littlestown, trucks. On many of them rode men in army or navy uniform. The Cashtown truck displayed a large "honor roll" of 24 blue stars and a gold star.

Division No. 4 was led by Mr. and Mrs. Granville Miller, Littlestown R. D., on horseback. The York Springs high school band was next in line, followed by the decorated automobile of the Gettysburg Soroptimist club, which carried the words "Welcome Home, Veterans." Past presidents of the club rode in the automobile.

A long line of floats, most of them from Littlestown, held over from the Littlestown "Welcome Home" celebration, came next. The float of the Blue Ridge Rubber and Carroll Shoe companies of Littlestown gave a welcome to the women of the country who served in World War II, and other floats carried their messages of welcome to the men and women of all the services. Among these Littlestown floats were the Jones Littlestown company, the Windsor Shoe company, and the Littonan Shoe company. A 1900 Oldsmoble, with its occupants dressed in the style of the "gay nineties" and an old high-wheeled bicycles, aroused much merriment along the parade route. The old car was occupied by Walter F. "Bud" Crouse and his daughter, Esther, of Littlestown, both in Gay Ninety costumes.

Reviewed By Vets

The Littonian Shoe company's floats depicted a living replica of the Statue of Liberty. The attractive float of the Gettysburg Lions club, the Adams county and the Littlestown community ambulances, and several automobiles and jeeps bearing veterans, concluded the parade.

As the first division, composed mostly of World War II veterans, reached Broadway on Carlisle street, the veterans fell out and formed lines on both sides of Carlisle street to review the remainder of the parade.

General Devers, Judge W. C. Sheely, general chairman of the Welcome Home celebration, and others, reviewed the parade from in front of the Hotel Gettysburg. Automobiles bearing these dignitaries followed the parade to Nixon stadium for the memorial program and the general's address.

BLAST TESTS MADE IN HILLS

Letterkenny's Ammunition Supply division is convinced that the South Mountains are the proper spot for setting off blasts if you don't want to hear them.

Recently a group of Ammunition Supply Division employes sojourned to McCalligan's hollow in the South Mountains to detonate their 1,000 pound bombs to determine whether or not the shock of the blowing of the ammunition would be as great to surrounding communities as it is when blown at the depot.

Observers were placed at various points in the surrounding area to observe just what shock was felt from the blast. One man was located at the intersection of the Walnut Bottom and Molly Pitcher highway at the north end of Shippensburg. Another spotter was placed at Lee's Crossroads and the third man about halfway between Chambersburg and McCalligan's Hollow. The only one of these locations to report any shock was at Lee's Crossroads where the shock was very slight. Other observers stationed at various points along the Big Flat road as well as at the fire tower reported only noise with no shock at all.

Results indicate that a large amount of unserviceable ammunition collected on the depot could be detonated in this favorable location; however, considerable improvement in terrain will have to be made before the use of this spot becomes a reality.

'NAVY' VICTORS OVER 'ARMY' TEN IN V-J CONTEST

The traditional Navy song about "sink the Army" could have been played, but loudly, Wednesday evening at the all-star softball game held on Nixon Field as part of the V-J Day Welcome Home celebration.

Playing before several thousand veterans and their families, Johnny Knox's Navy aggregation, made up of former navy men, trounced the army veterans 3 to 1.

The third inning was the deciding factor in the contest, with the former wearers of the bell-bottomed trousers bunching four hits, including doubles by Martin and Jones to score all of their runs in that one inning. The Army made its lone tally in the second when Jim Donaldson went across home plate for the Ralph Johnson-managed team.

Colored Game

Prior to the softball game the veterans were entertained by some fancy ball playing between the Baltimore Elite Giants and the New York Black Yanks in a National Colored League game. Baltimore was finally adjudged the victor, 10 to 5.

That game came to an end in the eighth with two out when the clubs ran out of baseballs. They started with two dozen but after the first few fouls the estimated 10,000 at the game began to refuse to return balls caught by members of the crowd. The teams, joining into the spirit of the thing, let the veterans keep the balls and finally ran out of the principal requisite for playing ball.

Houck and Fair, twirling for the Navy, allowed the Armymen only six hits during the softball contest. Two of them were by Jim Donaldson, who sparked the Army with a triple and double out of three times at bat. Tawney, hurling for the Army, gave up only seven hits during the game.

Barlow's baseball team, victors Tuesday over Harney, 6 to 1, will try for another win this evening at Bonneauville.

The Barlowmen, who made 19 errors in the three games prior to the conflict with Harney, turned in but one error Tuesday and hope at least as far as errors go to play a perfect game tonight. Sunday afternoon the Barlow nine will be host to Greenmount.

Nelson Eager For Vacation From Links

Seattle, Aug. 15 (AP)—Lord Byron Nelson, the lord and master of professional golf, is a tired old man at 34, and is both weary and eager in looking forward to a six months vacation from the links.

"I'm tired—just plain tired of golf," he said in the Broadmoore Golf club lockerroom yesterday before he went out and snipped a stroke off par with a 69 in losing first and second ball exhibitions against Harold "Jug" McSpaden and Betty Jameson.

Byron, teamed with Betty Jane Rucker, outstanding Pacific Northwest women's golfer from Spokane, lost, 5 and 4, as Jug, from Sanford, Me., turned in a 31-35—66 to carry the load. Miss Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., had a 77 and Miss Rucker an 80.

DODGER RELIEF MOUND STAFF TURNS THE TIDE

By JOE REICHLER
(By The Associated Press)

There is no mystery about what's keeping the Brooklyn Dodgers at the head of the National league—it is their bullpen hurlers.

This becomes more apparent day by day. Of the club's 110 games this season, the relief corps has come to the starting pitchers' rescue 74 times and has emerged with 35 victories aganst only 10 defeats besides "saving" 13 other games.

The brilliant work done by the Dodger relief corps is best illustrated by the won and lost records of Hugh Casey, whose 10 victories, all gained in relief roles, is second only to starter Vic Lombardi's 11 triumphs.

Sox Down A's 3-1

Brooklyn starting pitchers, who have completed only 36 games, or less than one third of their starts, needed help only once in yesterday's 8-4 and 2-1 victories over the New York Giants. The two triumphs increased the league leaders' margin over the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals to one and a half games. The Cards won their game from the Cubs 6-4 in Chicago.

The Boston Red Sox continued their pennant parade with a 3-1 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics, their 13th victory in 15 games with the American league cellar-dwellers.

Floyd Bevens, Giant New York righthander, also notched his 13th victory when he pitched the Yankees to a 4-1 triumph over the Washington Senators.

Braves Top .500 Mark

Manager Lou Boudreau rapped out four hits including two double to help give the Cleveland Indians a 12-inning 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The Boston Braves went over the .500 mark for the first time since May 25 when Mort Cooper pitched them to a 5-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in a home night contest. Cooper was hurt scoring the winning run.

Nick Strincevich pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to their fifth straight victory and only a game and a half out of seventh place as the BUCS shaded the Cincinnati Reds 3-2.

The St. Louis Browns and Chicago White Sox were not scheduled.

Cincinnati, Aug. 15 (AP)—Mickey Owen's jaunt south of the border threatened today to end his ten-year baseball career.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler last night refused to lift the five-year suspension imposed on the former Brooklyn catcher and all other American ball-players who jumped their contracts to take fat jobs with the Mexican league.

Owen insisted, nevertheless, that he would not go south again, and since he will be 35 and past his prime when the suspension ends, it looks like Mickey is through.

But Mickey refused to give up hope. Conceding that he was "set" financially as a result of his Mexican adventure, he said he hoped the whole thing would blow over soon, or that Brooklyn would find some loophole to get him back. Meantime, he said he'd work on his Springfield, Mo., farm.

Owen hopped to Mexico, despite a Brooklyn contract, after his release from the navy early this year. Chandler suspended him May 9 but Mickey, fed up with Mexican baseball, last week asked the commissioner to let him come back.

ROSY SEASON AHEAD ON GRID

Chicago, Aug. 15 (AP)—College football is bustling towards its greatest attendance season in history with advance ticket sales ranging from 25 to an astronomical 800 per cent ahead of last year, an Associated Press survey indicated today.

From every corner of the country flow reports of record pre-season ducat distribution which later will blossom into a golden harvest of more sell-out throngs than the game has ever known.

The postwar spending fever has gripped bona fide and synthetic alumni alike, not to mention overflow undergraduate groups on almost every campus in the country.

At least a half-dozen schools—Michigana, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Southern California, U.C.L.A. and University of California—will play before a half-million or more fans, while other institutions will be restricted to smaller crowds only because their paying bowls are made of concrete instead of rubber.

Typical of a growing ticket dilemna is the threat by Georgia Tech students to commandeer the playing field at the November 8 sell-out between Navy and Tech at Atlanta unless undergraduates get a seating break.

TO COACH ENDS

Philadelphia, Aug. 15 (AP)—Temple university announces the appointment of Marvin (Preacher) Franklin, captain of the 1938 Vanderbilt university football team, as end coach. A native of Athens, Ga., Franklin is also student chaplain at the school. He was formerly a chaplain in the navy.

CONNOISSEUR'S CACHE

Minneapolis, (AP)—Workmen tearing up a sidewalk were mildly surprised at what they found under the concrete—six bottles of imported brandy.

Elderly Couple Is Beaten And Robbed

Uniontown, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—An elderly Uniontown couple was recovering in Uniontown hospital today from injuries they said were suffered when two thugs attacked them in their mountain home near Ohio-Pyle Tuesday night.

Irvin Shipley, 70, and his wife, Rebecca, 64, told state police they were black-jacked, kicked and choked by two men who approached them to buy turkeys. Shipley was able to stagger to neighbors for help. Investigators said the attack was apparently made in hopes of obtaining money from the Shipleys.

Seek Court Order To Block Pay Raise

Pittsburgh, Aug. 15 (AP)—The Allegheny county common pleas court today studied a request for an order which would block wage and salary increases authorized by McKeesport city councilmen recently during a strike of municipal workers.

The suit was filed by Miles F. Rupert, as a taxpayer, who claimed the pay jumps were illegal since council had "no power or authority" to increase pay above that provided for in existing ordinances. Council had authorized increases of eight cents an hour for hourly workers and $15 a month for daily and salaried employes.

PRACTICALLY NEW THESE DAYS

Los Angeles, (AP)—George C. Green isn't worried much whether automobile manufacturers get back on the pre-war beam.

George pulled into town yesterday from Lambertville, N. J., in the 1904 model (Oldsmobile) he bought second-hand in 1907 for $165. It was his second transcontinental trip in the one cylinder model.

He says he gets 30 miles to the gallon and the old buggy goes up to 25 miles an hour.

HELD FOR ARSON

Pittsburgh, Aug. 15 (AP)—Herbert Hunter, 49-year-old machinist estranged from his wife, was charged with arson yesterday by Detective Inspector Fred Good after the police officer said Hunter admitted setting fire to gasoline in his wife's apartment house because she rejected a reconciliation offer. The resulting fire did $1,000 damage and injured two firemen.

GIANT CARRIER IN CRISIS AREA

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—The mighty new aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt is due at Lisbon tomorrow, bound for a Mediterranean training cruise that coincides with developing tension in the near east.

American diplomatic officials reportedly are taking a serious view of Russian demands on Turkey for a direct part in the control and defense of the Dardenelles. While it seems certain that the United States will back Turkey in rejecting the Russian demand, it is an open question how far this country will go in that respect.

Thus the appearance of the aircraft carrier and possibly other American naval units in the Mediterranean a few days after the arbe widely interpreted as an American show of force even though all official statements insist that the only purpose is a training cruise.

Naval plans call for the big carrier to be joined at Lisbon by the cruisers Houston and Little Rock and possibly one or more destroyers, all from Adm. Henry K. Hewitt's naval forces in northern European waters. In fact, the two cruisers and four destroyers comprise Hewitt's total force there at the moment.

Already in the Mediterranean under Vice Adm. Bernhard H. Bieri are the cruisers Fargo and Huntington and two destroyers.

TOURIST KILLED

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 15 (AP)—William L. Thompson, about 60, of McKeesport, Pa., was killed and his wife, Minerva, about 58, seriously injured yesterday when their automobile was demolished in a collision with a heavy truck and trailer 10 miles northwest of Peoria.

VILLA NOVA CALL

Villanova, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Head coach Jordan Oliver has invited 60 candidates for the Villanova college football team to report for preseason practice Saturday. The Wildcats, with a 10-game schedule including Army and Navy, open September 14 with a homecoming game here against Kings Point, N. Y., Merchant Marine academy.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles of the national professional football league today had a hometown boy, former University of Pennsylvania Captain Bert Kuzcinski, training with the squad here. His arrival brought the squad strength up to 58 players.

Warren, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Pennsylvania's 1946 deer season will be one of the best in several years, says Warren County Game Protector George Norris, because more does have given birth to two fawns this summer.

Countian Enters Horse At Carlisle

George W. Gingell, New Oxford, and David Ford, Emmitsburg, are among the owners of 55 horses which have been entered in the four-day harness racing program at the second annual Carlisle fair, starting next Tuesday.

The race entry list closed Tuesday, several days ahead of schedule, Race Secretary Paul W. Snyder said in disclosing the entries for the meet which will carry purses totaling $3,580.

Today's Talk

PAINT

Every one of these days at my small summer island retreat I pay a silent tribute to paint! What a transformation it makes, how fresh the appearance of everything is that it touches. Today I painted two outdoor chairs, one a brilliant carmine red, another a sky blue, and one of my porches with a beautiful green that melts into the forest of greens that surround my Lodge. And to my small guest cottage I gave an interior of white and blue, with a painted grey floor. How fresh is smelled!

I can bless Mr. Sherwin-Williams in my dreams! He advertises that his paints "cover the earth," and more power to him! They have covered this humble little summer home of mine with a new glory.

My early ambition to be one of the world's great portrait painters was early abandoned—but I can wield a generous paint brush with skill and pleasure! The new boards take it with glee, and the old ones almost thank me for my consideration. They don't mind my tired back at the close of a day, and I don't, either, for I feel that I have accomplished something. No day is lost in which any one of us can make this world a little brighter, whether with a kind word—or a paint brush.

I love the New England territory, for it is so generously given over to fresh paint. I love the beautiful church spires, in their shining white coats, and the barns in their red colorings. I still like to see the once familiar white picket fences.

To the cowl of my boat I have given a brilliant orange hue, and to the outside body a cream white, and I have lined the trimmings with a Yale blue. Then, in consideration for her proverbial football contestant, I have selected a Dartmouth green to enliven a few of my camp chairs. And, as a touch of loyalty to my old Kansas college, I have let Nature paint my sunflowers their undying gold!

My hands these days are seeped with paint, and my old clothes, at the end of a day of painting, are spotted like Joseph's "coat of many colors"—but new smiles, all over my humble abode, greet me from every angle of the compass!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Wayside Inns"

SOLICITATION FOR MERCY

None ever asks the dead to give
Or seek their service, great or small.
'Tis only on the ones who live
Solicitors for mercy call.

They never seek the idler out.
They know to ask his help is vain.
They scorn the bumpkin and the lout,
And from the miser they remain.

Begrudge it not when asked to give.
It is high compliment they pay.
'Tis recognition that you live,
Are honored, or they'd stay away.

NEW SCHOOL LUNCH PLAN INAUGURATED

Harrisburg, Aug. 15 (AP)—Inauguration of a new school lunch program under which Pennsylvania is eligible for $3,444,788 in federal funds on a matching basis awaited the Commonwealth's action of an agreement today.

John A. Smith, secretary of the state agricultural adjustment agency committee, which is seeking the agreement, said the plan has been submitted to Attorney General James H. Duff for a ruling on the state's participation.

Smith said the agreement would provide $2,853,381 for food and operation costs and an additional $591,406 for purchase and maintenance of equipment from a federal appropriation of $75,000,000.

He estimated 1,585,000 public school children will be eligible for hot lunches in Pennsylvania and 228,000 parochial pupils.

"We will probably have to operate the parochial school program in any event because the state constitution bars the use of state funds for sectarian schools," Smith explained.

Local Funds Can Help

He said if the commonwealth approves the agreement the program will be operated by the State Department of Public Instruction with Pennsylvania receiving $45,000 for administrative purposes.

Even though the commonwealth has no funds to match the federal grant, Smith said this will not bar the operation of the program since money from local bodies such as parent-teacher groups can be used to meet that condition.

In some cases in the past, he added, pupils themselves contributed 50 cents a week toward their lunches which represented approximately half the cost of a daily 19 cent hot meal.

In addition to the funds directly allocated to Pennsylvania, he said, the state will share in $13,000,000 set aside by the Agriculture Department for the purchase of surplus foods for channeling into the school lunch program.

Waynesboro Man Hurt In Crash

Falling asleep Tuesday afternoon while driving along the highway one mile west of Zora on the road to Baltimore, Albert Spangler, 33, Waynesboro, crashed into a culvert and narrowly escaped serious injury.

Taken to the Waynesboro hospital, he was found to be suffering from shock, numerous contusions of the forehead, chest and left hand. His left knee was also severely sprained. Following treatment, he was released.

An employe of Arthur's dairy, Waynesboro, Spangler was driving one of the dairy trucks and was journeying to a Scout meeting at Big Pipe Creek park.

Goes To Kent U. For 'Academic Freedom'

New Wilmington, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Dr. Leon S. Marshall, who quit the Westminster college faculty in July because he said his academic freedom had been "violated," has been named an associate professor of European history at Kent State university, Kent, Ohio, effective October 1.

Dr. Marshall, who favored re-election of Franklin D. Roosevelt in the last campaign, said he resigned because "pressure had been brought to bear" against him by the college administration and trustees for his political activity on the campus. He had been at Westminster 15 years.

AID CHILDREN

New Castle, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Workers of the Shenango Pottery here rallied to the aid of two children whose mothers work in the plant when they raised nearly -1,300 to be used in providing artificial limbs for Sandra Bishop and Stephen Shimko, each 6-year-old. The children, sent to the farm for the summer, walked in the path of a mowing machine and each had a leg cut off.

GREAT BRITAIN IS LION AT BAY IN WORLD TODAY

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Great Britain, riddled by war, experimenting with a new governmental system at home and striving mightily to save the economic position abroad without which she would be reduced to an obscure little island, finds herself surrounded today by an almost incredible number of harassments.

There have been darker hours for her, perhaps, when she stood alone against possible annihilation by the Spaniards, Napoleon, and Adolf Hitler. When courage and determination were her saving weapons and moment to moment existence her only goal, but for pure, downright cussed situations it is hard to recall when any nation was so beset.

She is carrying the main load in efforts to maintain her own and the Dutch interests in Indonesia. She is trying to reorganize Malaya and Burma on a friendly basis in re-establishing her control of the great southeast Asia bottleneck at Singapore. She is trying to get the Indians off her neck and onto their feet, at the same time preserving some of the interests which she has developed there over the years.

Fights One-Power Control

She is battling toe-to-toe at Paris, in Berlin and in Vienna against establishment of a one-power control over Europe which would have her at its mercy. She is trying to balance the needs of existence at home against the necessity for trade abroad.

And in the Middle East the Arabs and Jews, Russians and Persians, Greek leftists and Egyptians, all are trying to push her out. And it is in this ancient crossroads of the world that commercial and military interests alike demand that she stand beyond fail.

This involves military bases and seapower—military bases in lands which she does not actually own, and seapower which is almost entirely dependent on Middle Eastern oil.

Turkey Is British Ally

If Britain is to get out of Egypt, as seems inevitable, she must have bases at Bengazi and Tobruk as well as at Malta and Cyprus, and in Palestine to guard the Suez and the pipelines from Mosul. The Arabs want Bengazi and Tobruk, though, and the Jews and Arabs want Palestine. Britain has met a part of this problem by transforming Transjordan into an independent military base, but this is insufficient to meet any general threat which might be developed among the Iranians, the Kurds and Arabs of Iraq and Iran. Here the great Mosul and Abadan oil fields, largely owned by the British Admiralty, are at stake.

In all this area Turkey alone appears to be a British ally. The unflinching Turkish stand against any westward encroachment by Russia on the Dardanelles and the eastern Mediterranean is the one bright spot in the British pitcure The friendship of the Greek government is, for the moment at least, a drain rather than a support, although Greece does stand as a buffer between Russia and further infringement on the British lifeline.

John Bull's friends are in the habit of expecting him to "muddle through," but he is in a muddle this time in which, every way he turns, he steps on someone's toes.

NOISE ANNOYS

Newburgh, N. Y., (AP)—The city councilhas instructed corporation council has instructed corporation statutes for a law against roosters' crowing and noisy wedding motorcades. If he can't find one, he is to draw up an ordinance outlawing same because residents have complained of being awakened.

But the question is: Who will tell the roosters?

Someone To Believe In

By Helen R. Woodward

Chapter 26

They sat on high stools before a gleaming white counter and ate two hamburgers apiece, and found that it was a little hard to keep up the pretense of animosity under the circumstances. She questioned him about the club, learned that they had gotten a singer in her place who was, as Rocky expressed it, "adequate."

Rocky said, trying to keep his voice casual, "I suppose you're getting alone fine. Have you seen Grafton? He was pretty anxious to have you sing for him as I remember it!"

"I'm going up to the city tomorrow," Greer answered, making the decision suddenly. "I have several other things in mind, too," she said proudly, thankful of her Aunt Harriet's offer.

"Good! I don't suppose you'd consider coming back to the Melody Club?"

She glanced at him sideways, but he was intent on his sandwich and she could not see his eyes. "No, I think not, Rocky. If I can better myself with Grafton, why shouldn't I? Besides, things are pretty much as—as they were when I left I understand!"

His face flushed. "You mean — with Isobel? Certainly they're the same. Do you think I'm going to tell that desperately lonely child that the one friend she's got is turning her down? Especially now that her father's going away?"

"Don't be ridiculous! Isobel isn't quite the deserted little orphan she'd let you believe she is! She'd have plenty of friends if she wouldn't be rude to them!" Presently she asked, "How is Donnie?"

"He's fine. Asks when he's going to see you pretty often."

"I'd like to see him. He's a darling."

"I'll try to arrange it," he promised. "Just because you don't like me is no reason you can't be friends with Donnie." He drank the last of the tall glass of milk before him. "Matter of fact, Greer — now that I've gotten over being in love with you, I don't see why we can't be friends!"

He turned to face her and Greer, completely unnerved by his last words — by the implication he gave for the first time that he had been in love with her and that the spark that had flashed so electrically between them was no longer burning—turned away, choking. She knew that she had been the one to snuff out that spark. She hadn't known her own heart until too late.

"You forget Isobel," she said at last. "I couldn't be friends with you as long as you let Isobel chase after you!"

He shrugged. "Looks like we're right back where we started from, doesn't it? I suppose we'll always be at cross purposes about everything!"

He was so sure of it that she could not answer. They rode almost in silence until they reached her apartment. Then Rocky said, "Do you have a way to get up to town tomorrow. I'd be glad—"

"Thank you," she answered hurriedly, "but I'm going up with — with a friend on the bus."

"Okay, if that's the way you want it!"

The next morning quite early Greer took a bus up to the city. She thought, "If Mr. Grafton meant what he said that night in Rocky's office I'm pretty sure of getting the job with him. That means that I'll finally be cutting off all ties with home. I'll be staying in the city. I wont' be seeing much of — of anybody — any more."

But Mr. Grafton was out of the city and his secretary wasn't sure when he'd be back. If Miss Lawrence would come in again in a week, perhaps —

Having nothing else to do, she went the rounds of the radio stations, but none were auditioning that day. If Miss Lawrence would come back on Monday or Thursday or Saturday, or some other day! Any day but today, it seemed!

Greer reached home feeling weary and discouraged. She thought angrily, "Bother Isobel and Rocky Alverson! If it weren't for them I'd be safe and secure singing at the Melody Club!" As it was, her funds were dwindling with startling rapidity. She'd soon be forced to go to Harriet for help and how she hated that!

As she got off the bus Jeff Mansfield picked her up in his car. She sank gratefully back among the cushions even though he berated her soundly for not having let him drive her into town.

"We might have picked up that trail in Chinatown again," he said. "I have a hunch that the net is being drawn in tight on that dope ring I told you about!"

Greer noticed that there was a restiveness about Jeff's manner for which she couldn't account until he said, "Greer, darling, — in view of the many times I've told you I love you, you'll be surprised —"

She sat forward eagerly. "It's Jessie! You've fallen in love with her! You've found out that she's the one after all! Oh, Jeff, I'm glad. She's loved you for a long time."

"She has?" he asked in surprise.

"Of course!"

He laughed. "Well, I must say you're acting positively hilarious about it! You don't do a thing to a man's ego, do you? I was conceited enough to think you might care a little—"

"But I do care, darling!" Greer laughed. "Don't you see, idiot, I love you both. You didn't want me to be unhappy about it, did you?"

"Well, not unhappy, of course, but—"

She squeezed his arm delightfully. "Oh, Jeff, you're priceless! I actually believe you hoped I'd be the 'love-lorn maiden with the flowing eyes!'"

But gradually she realized that in the back of her mind had been the knowledge that Jeff was always there, standing by. And he would still be there, of course — he and Jessie together. But she wouldn't be "first" with him any more. In fact, there wasn't a single person with whom she held first place. It was a dreary and rather frightening thought.

It was early the next morning that Greer received an urgent telephone call from Harriet.

Horseshoe Pitching Is Being Revived

Harrisburg, Aug. 15 (AP)—Discontinued during the war years, statewide horseshoe pitching championships will be in full swing during the county aand community fairs in the next few weeks.

The state title will be decided at the 31st annual Pennsylvania Farm show here next January 13-17.

"The four-year layoff (since 1942) has served to arouse greater interest than ever before in the statewide contest," state Agriculture Secretary Miles Horst said.

He described the fairs as "an ideal setting" for preliminary county championship contests.

The 1942 winner was Edward W. Mayes, of Spruce Creek, Huntingdon county, with Paul E. Vogel, of Brackenbridge, as the runnerup. First prize is $25, second prize $20 and third place $10.

Col. E. R. Bradley Dies At Lexington

West Palm Beach, Fla., Aug. 15 (AP)—Col. E. R. Bradley, the sportsman, died early today at his Idle Hour farm at Lexington, Ky., C. H. Shannon, his business associate announced.

Bradley, whose horses have won four Kentucky Derbies, was conscious to the last, Shannon said. He was 86 years old.

REVERSE HOLD-UP

Pittsburgh, Aug. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Nada Carlough, 42, used a souvenir revolver sent her by a soldier-son, to hold one of two hold-up men at bay after the victim's cries aroused her attention yesterday. One robber fled but the other stood at Mr. Carlough's command until police arrived.

Builders Are First To Use New Theater

Philadelphia, Aug. 15 (AP)—The men who built the new Goldman theater became the first Philadelphians to enjoy the plush comfort of the new sliding seats.

The movie house—first built in downtown Philadelphia since 1926—opens formally today with the official world premiere of Bob Hope's new picture, "Monsieur Beaucaire."

But last night the bricklayers, electricians, carpenters, laborers, plumbers and other AFL craftsmen who erected the building were the theater's first audience.

Owner William Goldman arranged the unusual premiere because the workmen finished the movie house on schedule.

RADIO PROGRAMS

New York, August 15 (AP)—The big shuffle has been made and the deck dealt: The dopesters have decided when we are going to get what on the air this fall. CBS is to have most of the Monday night voltage with Inner Sanctum, Joan Davis, Radio Theater, and Screen Guild Theater. NBC's Tuesday night looks like a clean sweep again with Amos and Andy, Fibber McGee and Molly, Bob Hope, and Red Skelton.

If the Crosby deal with ABC goes through and he gets the 9 p. m. spot on Wednesdays, he will be battling Frank Sinatra on CBS and Ed "Archie" Gardner on NBC.

RAF BOMBERS OVER N. Y.— A dozen British Lancaster bombers, part of famed Royal Air Force squadron 35, pass over New York City during a goodwill visit to the U. S.

POLIO ON WANE IN SOME AREAS; WORST SINCE '16

(By The Associated Press)

Infantile paralysis was reported on the wane today in some states but health officials said it was yet too early to tell if the worst wave of the disease since 1916 had reached its peak.

Use of a plastic "baby lung"—which during the war kept wounded fliers alive until their planes could return to base—was offered to stricken communities by the Army Air Forces. It would serve until a conventional "iron lung" could be provided.

While the disease appeared abating in Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Ohio and Florida, the picture remained dark in Minnesota, Mississippi, Colorado and other scattered areas.

Poliomyelitis had struck hardest in Minnesota where 1,124 cases and 81 deaths surpassed the worst previous wave of the disease, 955 cases in 1925.

92 Cases in Detroit

With no let-up in sight, Minneapolis school authorities were making a survey to determine if the opening of the fall term of school, set for September 3, should be delayed, and cancellation of the State Fair starting August 24 was being considered.

Detroit restricted bathing at beaches as the incidence reached 92 cases with nine deaths.

California reported 115 cases for the week-end August 10 compared with 60 for the preceding week. Eighty cases were in Los Angeles county alone.

Reporting the "usual expectancy" or less than normal prevalence of the disease were Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, New Jersey, the New England States and Pennsylvania.

Discover Hoax By Bogus Army Captain

Philadelphia, Aug. 15 (AP)—A dishonorably discharged corporal put on the uniform of an air corps captain and spent three months as a patient in an army hospital before the hoax was discovered, the FBI says.

Clarence R. Huntzinger, 33, formerly of Hazleton, Pa., is being held in $1,000 bail today on a charge of impersonating an officer.

FBI agents told Magistrate John Morlock, sitting as a U. S. commissioner, that Huntzinger—in the army four years—was discharged without honor for being absent without leave. He purchased a captain's uniform and went to the Valley Forge hospital in nearby Phoenixville.

Hospital officials found Huntzinger's serial number was phony and uncovered the deception, the FBI said.

PASTOR WAGES VICE CAMPAIGN IN DUQUESNE

Duquesne, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Unmoved by threats against his life, Rev. R. A. Graybill today carried forward a campaign against vice in this mill town near Pittsburgh with a plan to use constables and possible state police to drive out criminals and rackets.

Rev. Graybill, pastor of the First Christian church, said Duquesne police promised to protect his home after an anonymous telephone caller threatened to "blow your brains out" but he also declared local officers had been "ineffective" in breaking up gambling.

"Cleanest In The Valley"

The minister said the man only talked for about 30 seconds and "cursed me in language I would not repeat." Earlier, Rev. Graybill appeared before city council and demanded action on behalf of steelworkers' wives whose husbands "gambled away their paychecks."

He said he would confer with state police officials to determine if that constabulary could help. He added:

"From my observation, it seems everything in the county is tied together and I must go outside that area to get someone I can trust."

Chief Tim Long of the Duquesne police denied the city was racket-infested, saying: "Our town is cleaner than any in the valley. As to the charge that houses of prostitution are operating—that hurts. We've never stood for anything like that."

SEEK END TO BAKERY STRIKE

Philadelphia, Aug. 15 (AP)—Strike bound bakeries want a Pennsylvania Common Pleas court to see that Philadelphians get bread.

A strike of 1,883 AFL workers—now in its sixth day—has kept 13 plants of five baking firms here and three in Norristown, Pa., closed, depriving 4,000,000 residents of the Philadelphia area of an estimated one million loaves of bread daily.

The bread lines throughout the Quaker City have been long, but not every householder has been able to share in the 500,000 loaves that still are being baked each day.

Three companies—Freihofer and Parkway of Philadelphia; and Stroehman Brothers of Norristown—filed injunctions yesterday asking the courts to end the strike. The firms contend the strike is "in flagrant violation of the contracts signed last November between managements and the union (Local 6, Bakery and Confectionery Workers-AFL)."

Furthermore, the companies' attorney contends in the three bills of equity "that the international union has not authorized termination of the contracts and therefore has not approved the strike."

The Federal government, meantime, hopes to settle the dispute.

Peace Parley Hears Czechoslovakia Answer Hungarian Persecution Charges

BYRNES MAKES NEW REPLY TO USSR CHARGES

By WILLIAM B. KING

Paris, Aug. 15 (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, in an address patently aimed at Soviet Russia, told the peace conference today that economic treaties concluded in contradiction of the Potsdam agreement would lead to "enslavement and exploitation."

At the same time Byrnes took exception to Russian allegations—made during the debate on Italy's statement to the conference—that certain nations had enriched themselves during the war.

"Now what great power enriched itself during the war?" Byrnes asked. "I certainly know of none. I hope he (the Soviet spokesman) was not referring to the United States."

"No Recompense"

Byrnes declared that the war cost the United States $400,000,000 "loaned by the American public," but was "seeking no recompense."

"Before America was attacked Franklin D. Roosevelt announced that the United States would be the symbol of democracy," he added. "America has asked for no recompense other than the freedoms she sought for all mankind. America seeks no territories or recompense."

Byrnes added that the United States was willing to help in the economic rebirth of any nation.

He spoke after Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk of Czechoslovakia had told the conference that Hungarian Foreign Minister Janos Gyongyosi had tried to "gloss over" his nation's record as an Axis satellite by castigating Czechoslovakia in an address before the parley yesterday.

Sharp Exchanges

The American secretary praised both Italy and Greece and objected to recent speeches by Russian and other Slav delegates giving the "impression that other countries were more democratic than Italy because they have harmonized their views with the Russians."

There was a clear reference to Russia when Byrnes said that the draft treaties "permit every country to exploit its own resources and to allow the free flow of goods between countries."

"Who won this war—the United States or Hungary?" the peppery Masaryk demanded indignantly as he denied Gyongyosi's charges that the Hungarian minority in Czechoslovakia was being ruthlessly persecuted.

"A Little Bewildered!

"I am still a little bewildered by it all," the Czechoslovak foreign minister declared, and added with a touch of sarcasm.

"You will all agree that we heard precious little about the drafts, but a great deal about a real culprit among the nations of Europe-Czechoslovakia."

Masaryk asserted that the Hungarian spokesman apparently thought that "an offensive was the best way to gloss over certain not too savory phases" of Hungary's record.

He said his country would continue to seek a solution of the problems confronting the conference but that "yesterday's speech will not rake these endeavors any easier."

"With the exception of a few generalities we did not hear from Mr. Gyongyosi a clear condemnation of 20 years of the semi-fascist, fascist and always feudal regimes in Hungary," Masaryk said.

Executions Charged

He maintained the Czechoslovakia's record on minorities "is second to none in Europe during the period between the two wars."

"And what happened during the last phase of the war? In 1944 the Slovak nation rose behind the German line and a magnificent insurrection began," he continued.

"The Germans had to throw seven divisions into action to hold the front. The Hungarians held them the best they knew how. Even after the signing of the armistice Hungarians supported the Germans by blowing up bridges, factories and communications of all sorts. This is why Czechoslovakia was the last country to be really liberated," Masaryk said.

Masaryk charged that Hungarian military formations assisted "in mass executions of Slovak patriots and partisans."

AMENDMENTS CORRECT FLAWS IN GI TRAINING

(Editor's Note:—This is the second of three articles describing on-the-job training program for veterans)

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—Bill Smith left a $150 a month job to go into the army. After his discharge three years later he returned to his old job.

Meanwhile his employer got himself approved to give on-the-job training under the GI Bill of Rights. He persuaded Bill to sign up for four years of job training.

Bill soon discovered his employer was paying him only $60 a month. He wondered why.

Some Abuse by Vets

His employer told him the GI bill subsistence allowance of $90 a month wages would total $150 a month, which was what Bill was making when he went to the war.

Most employers no doubt are using the program honestly, but what Bill's employer did is what hundreds are doing. Such employers are using the veterans as cheap labor. In effect, GI Bill job-training program is subsidizing these employers.

But in other cases some veterans are making unscrupulous use of the program. Not concerned with long-range, comprehensive training, they sign up just for the added income.

Being Corrected

Why does the veterans administration (VA) tolerate this situation? It has to, the way the law is written. The GI Bill states that "no department, agency or officer of the United States . . . shall exercise any supervision or control over any state educational agency, or state apprenticeship agency, or any educational or training institution" in carrying out the provisions of the job-training program.

It's a case of divided authority. States approve and (supposedly) supervise training outfits while VA pays the subsistence allowance. States complain they haven't the funds to exercise needed supervision. VA complains the law prohibits its doing any supervising, although it does have the authority to investigate training programs.

Just before going home Congress sent legislation to the President which may go far toward solving the difficulty. The President put his signature on the bill last Thursday. Under the new law states will get enough money to keep an eagle eye peeled for shady practices.

Putting Ceilings In

The law allots enough funds to VA to reimburse state and local agencies for expenses incurred in the supervision.

The same law will prohibit any veteran job-trainee from making more than $175 a month (if single) or $200 a month (if he has dependents), over his subsistence allowance.

Up to now nothing in the law has prevented a $400 or $500-a-month store manager or sales executive from drawing the allowance and saying he was training to become president of his company.

Seeking Gang For Narcotics Thefts

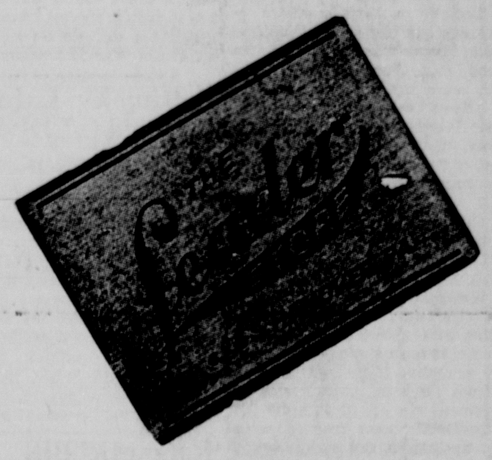

Pittsburgh, Aug. 15 (AP)— Pittsburgh police and federal narcotic agents today hunted a trace of the well-organized gang which broke into four Pittsburgh hospitals and stole about 15,000 morphine tablets.

The Mercy, Children's, West Penn and Monteliore were looted early yesterday in the city's largest drug robbery. In addition to losing about 8,000 morphine tablets, Montefiore hospital reported loss of 400 grains of powdered cocaine.

RECRUITING UNIT

Pittsburgh, Aug. 15 (AP)—A mobile army recruiting unit will tour Western Pennsylvania communities soon, covering county fairs and other public gatherings, Lt. Col. Robert W. Springer, commanding officer of the Pittsburgh recruiting district, announced today.

GERMAN MINERS NEED FOOD AND MORE HOMES

By JAMES DEVLIN
(For Hal Boyle)

Essen, Germany, Aug. 15 (AP)—Herr Stephan Dolata, Ruhr coal miner, used to weigh 170 pounds.

He weighs 120 pounds now. He gets the rations of a heavy worker, but he turns most of them over to his wife and their two sons, 11 and eight years old. All four sleep in the same bed in their one-room "home," about 15 square feet in the basement of a brick building that formerly was a vegetable storage house.

The Dolatas' living quarters were described by a British officer as "about average" for miners' families in this bomb-wrecked Ruhr industrial city. Some families fare better, some worse.

Need Food and Homes

What Dolata and his fellow miners need—if they are to increase the output of Ruhr coal needed for next winter in Europe—is more food and homes.

In this they are backed up by British officials of the North German Coal Commission.

"It is understandable," said one, "for people to say 'the Germans started the war; let them starve.' But this isn't a case of pitying the Germans. It is just one of the ironies of war that if we are to have coal from German mines we must have miners who are fit to mine it."

At the Dolata home Frau Johanna Dolata apologized, not for its scant furnishings or the cramped room, but because she just had washed the cement floor and it still was wet. The place had one door and one window.

Bombed Out Twice

Frau Dolata displayed her furnishings: one bed, a small stove which burns either wood or coal, two portable wooden closets, one wicker chair, two boxes that serve as chairs, a couple of pictures on the wall and a vase of blue and white flowers on the window sill.

That was about the extent of their belongings. The Dolatas twice were bombed out of previous homes.

"How do four persons sleep in one bed?"

She smiled and shrugged.

"What do you do for food?"

Frau Dolata, a gaunt, blonde woman, put her hand to her head and laughed heartily.

"Nicht," she said, using the German word that sounds like "nix" and means about the same.

It's not quite that bad. Her husband, as a heavy worker, gets between 3,000 and 3,500 calories a day. Frau Dolata and the children are supposed to get about 1,000 calories, the normal ration.

Campbell Workers Approve Agreement

Camden, N. J., Aug. 15 (AP)—An "almost unanimous" vote of approval was given by 3,000 Campbell Soup Company employes for a labor-management compromise agreement which averted a strike one minute before it was to start.

Harold J. Lane, international secretary of the Food, Tobacco, Agricultural and Allied Workers of America (CIO), said the settlement will keep the present contract in effect until March 1, 1947. He did not disclose the actual vote count by which the union members approved the compromise.

The settlement provides, in addition: (1) That the company shall not engage in anti-union activity; (2) That the company and union will negotiate for future hiring of migratory workers, and (3) That workers at Campbell's New Salisbury, Md., plant be placed under a contract similar to one now in effect at the Camden plant.

State College, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—More than 1,000 boys and girls headed for home today after participating in the state-wide 4-H club week at the Pennsylvania State college. Most of the prizes were carried back to Lancaster county with the youngsters from that section taking first honors in dairy cattle, general livestock, and poultry.

Two Vets' Groups Working For Bonus

Harrisburg, Aug. 15 (AP)—State commanders of two of Pennsylvania's largest veteran organizations were at work today on plans to have a bonus bill passed at the next session of the legislature.

James Murray, head of the American Legion, said he looked for his organization to pass a resolution approving a bonus bill at the annual convention of his group in Philadelphia next week.

John U. Shroyer, newly elected head of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, called a meeting of all VFW district commanders for Harrisburg next Monday to "discuss the bonus bill."

The VFW approved of a bonus bill resolution at their recent convention in Philadelphia. At the same time Shroyer asked Governor Martin to call a special session of the legislature to vote on a bonus for all World War II veterans.

Getting Up Late Paid Off Dividends

Philadelphia, Aug. 15 (AP)—Getting up late is profitable to Bernard Hurwitz.

He played pinochle deep into the night, arriving at his teamster office tardy today with $1,500 in his pocket. Just a few minutes earlier, robbers had left empty handed.

The 33-year-old Hurwitz five months ago stopped off in a delicatessen for a sandwich. He got to work late with $1,000, just missing robbers.

Incidentally, he won at pinochle.

'Romantic' Bill Pays License Fee

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Marriage license clerk Al Pascoe tells the story of the romantic two dollar bill he received as part of a $3 license fee.

Across the face of the bill was written:

"Eve dearest—I love you. Will you marry me? Sid."

And below was the answer:

"Sid dear—I will in due time. Eve."

WAGE-PRICE POLICY OF CIO BEING PLOTTED

By HAROLD W. WARD

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—The CIO plotted its future wage-price strategy today.

Top national officers as well as regional, state and local representatives gathered for an emergency session to discuss what has happened to the wage earner's dollar in the light of recent price boosts.

The meeting, following a gathering of CIO vice presidents yesterday to draft formal declarations of policy, was thrown open to newsmen. The policy declarations were not made public immediately.

The top unanswered question in advance of today's session was whether the labor organization would launch a new wave of wage demands.

Three big CIO unions already are talking along this line. They are the packing house workers, now in wage negotiations with Swift and Company; the executive board of Ford Local 600 of the CIO-Auto workers; and the executive board of the CIO Oil workers, meeting at Ft. Worth, Texas.

The wage stabilization board's two public members, Chairman W. Willard Wirtz and Vice Chairman Phillips L. Garman, advised the price decontrol board yesterday that the government's whole stabilization program depends on rolling back prices on essental food items.

The CIO has made similar suggestions. And President Philip Murray was scheduled to testify before the decontrol agency, at 4 p. m. (EST).

The first woman U. S. representative was Jeannette Rankin of Montana.

Kane Ready To Greet Hay Fever Victims

Kane, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—It's hay fever time in Pennsylvania and the 6,100 residents of this small mountain community are ready today for the annual visit of pollen sufferers.

Kane's atmosphere, according to tests, is reputed free of ragweed pollen and other air-borne irritants.

Approximately 1,000 visitors are expected and they'll stop until the first frost—about the middle of September—if they can find housing.

ext Of General Devers' Address

he complete text of the address ivered Wednesday afternoon by n. Jacob L. Devers at the Wel- e Home celebration follows:

t is a genuine pleasure for me to with you today and to partici- e in your "Welcome-Home" cele- tion for Adams County veterans World War II—and to have a t in the observance of the first niversary of the cessation of stilities in the Pacific.

ertainly Gettysburg is a most ing and appropriate place for an ervance of this kind. It is the ical site for a gathering to pay bute to those who fought so val- tly on the ten fronts of the rld's first global war to free so ny from the yoke of despotism posed by the Fascist dictators.

Memorials, honoring those men o gave their lives in freedom's se in the Civil War and in rld War I, have been erected in ttysburg and in many other es and towns of the United tes.

Must Guarantee Peace

This is an appropriate gesture to nor the memory of our heroes. t we must do more than this. Our owledge of the price paid for tory in World War II—in terms lives lost, and the expenditure money and the materials of war nust keep us ever alert to avoid repetition of a world conflict costly as the one just concluded. We must apply ourselves to the k of guaranteeing that the peace ich we worked so hard to win l be perpetuated in this and in ure generations.

To do this, let us create a living morial to the brave men of World r II, who through their patriotic vice and devotion to duty fought rough to victory and brought the wnfall of our enemies. Let us take ion to insure that their sacri- es have not been in vain.

Spectacular Change

To do this we must take cogni- nce of the world situation and relation to it. America, I be- ve, cannot be secure unless the t of the world is secure; conversely e rest of the world cannot have urity unless America has her urity. Our gigantic responsibility to guarantee our security so that can play our part in building a ter world. Yet because we are the remost and most powerful free tion, no one can doubt that the atest responsibility falls on us.

Now I submit to you that, before can do any planning of our urse of action, we must make at we soldiers call an "estimate the situation." And when we do, find that in a great many respects ur position in the world today differs radically from any that has confronted us before.

The most obvious and spectacular change from yesterday is in new weapons and in their destructive power. All eyes are turned to the use of atomic power as an instrument of war. Extensive work is being done in the development of guided missiles, even more destructive than the "buzz bombs" which laid waste to London and harassed Antwerp and other European continental ports. We must not underestimate the effect of these new weapons available today and those that will be developed in the future.

History's Lessons

But it is just as important that we don't overestimate these weapons to the point of believing that control of our own future is no longer in our hands.

We must remember that history records other revolutionary developments in the tools of war.

The Assyrian, for example, except in poetry, didn't come down "like the wolf on the fold." He came down in armored chariots, and the enemy's unarmored fold was scattered high and wide.

Gunpowder amazed and confused the French at Crecy when missiles were first hurled at them with a new and terrifying force. But gunpowder didn't end wars.

And in our times, the development of aircraft and of the tank in World War I, and now rockets, atomic bombs, radar and guided missiles confound our imaginations with their possibilities.

Redistribution of Power

Yet we know that new ingredients in warfare, in the past, have never tempered man's willingness to wage war.

What these latest ingredients have done, is to bring war to a point at which any future conflict would be so enormously and indiscriminately destructive that victors as well as vanquished would be left reeling.

Today's world is changed in a second way: A distribution of power and of influence has been going on ever since World War I. There is a new alignment of the nations.

For a hundred years the United States was able to live relatively detached from the rest of the world. The strong nations were friendly to us, or they were too busy worrying about each other to interfere seriously with us.

Our Immunity Gone

Geographically this detachment made us free from attack. Psychologically and politically it gave us a chance to build with motives unclouded by the European struggles.

We must remember, however, that it was not due to any special, Heaven-sent immunity. It was due first, to the fact that we were not dependent on Europe economically. Next, that the balance of power was preserved in Europe's quarrels. And last, to the friendly presence of the British Navy which kept the Atlantic clear of potential invaders.

Today these circumstances have entirely changed. The order of the nations has shifted. Our apparent immunity has ceased to exist.

Isolation Destroyed

Thirdly, we must give serious consideration to the importance of an international exchange of information. Much has been said about the "annihilation" of distance by improved transportation. Man's increasing ability to go easily anywhere he wants to go, certainly lessens the possibility of isolation.

But just as important, is seems to me, is the ease and speed with which men can get information and news, even compared to ten or twenty years ago, about what is happening in the world.

This increase in our knowledge of other countries and their peoples does much to destroy the possibility of isolation. Today, distance and time have been so reduced that everybody is our neighbor. We know a lot about what he is doing. We care—we have to care—what he does—especially if he is inclined to start wars.

Honest News Important

There is another side to the question of world knowledge. It can be used as a potent weapon. It can do a great deal of good if it is spread honestly. It can do enormous harm if it is spread dishonestly. Withholding it can be the most dangerous of all.

Another new aspect of the situation in which we find ourselves today arises from our foreign commitments.

We have taken part in two World Wars. Naturally, we take a part in the settlement of those wars.

We have important interests all over the world — oil — rubber — tin — drugs, for example — markets — trade — strategic interests.

We have become one of the principal defenders of free and open communications on all the seas and in the air.

Charged With Leadership

Where Americans and American interests go — the American flag goes. We are drawn deeply into the affairs of the world.

Moreover, we are charged with leadership in the world.

As America emerges from war, victorious and less impaired than any other major power, she is the healthiest, richest, strongest nation on earth. She controls a greater source of power — for destruction or construction — than has ever been known before. And finally, her honesty, her purposes and her ideals are trusted by more peoples than those of any other nation.

I have tried to give you a broad outline of the situation in which America must plan and build for the future. I believe it is radically different from any situation which has confronted us before.

The Situation Now

I have described four of the ways in which it is different:

1. Science has blown open a door to entirely new possibilities in power — both for defense and for offense.

2. The old world balance of power which helped us keep out of entanglements by keeping the nations relatively stable, is gone.

3. Greatly increased speed and ease of distributing information has drawn the nations closer together — has mixed us up increasingly in each other's affairs.

4. Our foreign commitments are greater and more complex than ever before.

Under these circumstances I believe that fresh approaches and new, constructive methods of dealing with our problems must be found if we are to preserve the nation's security.

Put Own House In Order

Above all, it is clear that we must act — promptly, effectively — wisely and courageously.

What are the things which we must do to assure security to the United States?

I think they can be divided into five essentials.

First: We must put our own house in order.

Leadership — like charity — begins at home. If we are to keep America secure, we must see to it that she is prosperous and strong within.

Now, we cannot be prosperous and strong unless we take in hand the domestic problems left to us after the war.

It Can Be Done

It is not enough to pretend to shout the country into order. First, we have to decide what we want. We have to decide, all of us, together—not just by groups. Then we have to recognize the basis on which these things rest. We have to work for these things.

Our domestic problems are many. They are political, sociological, economic. They include problems of industry, labor, agriculture and research. Sometimes they look very big and very complicated.

But this country has had problems before. We have always solved them—by courage and cooperation—American teamwork. It's a good brand. With it we can put our own house in order.

Second: We must decide in the light of present events and circumstances, what position we shall take in the world. America must be sure what kind of new commitments she will be willing to make. She must not want anything for which she is not ready to pay the price.

Certainly, unless we know what we want, and what we will do to get it, there is no basis on which to plan for the future. There is no basis on which to deal with other nations. Moreover, other nations have no sound basis on which to deal with us. It becomes a vicious circle, and leaves the whole world in a dangerous state of indecision and mistrust.

Third: America must learn to know and to understand the other nations of the world, otherwise we shall be unable to understand and evaluate the motives of other nations. We must also be sure that our own motives are understood by others.

The facility with which information is available today has made the world smaller and brought peoples and nations closer together than ever before. Yet unless that information is honest and unless it gives an accurate picture, any action we base upon it will end in failure. Remember what Hitler did with misinformation—and how he ended up.

Must Get the Facts

Let us examine our own motives, then, and let us learn to understand the motives of others.

There is another thing which we must do:

Motives are often best revealed by actions—by facts. We must gather those facts. To do so I believe strongly that we must have an intelligence system second to none.

For many years it wasn't necessary for America to know a great deal about the devious working of world politics because she wasn't called upon to take much of a part in them. Today, because she must lead them, information is an absolute necessity.

Must Have World Accord

Fourth: We must work for some form of world cooperation or government.

That such world cooperation is essential, I think we all agree. Professor Peffer in his book "America's Place in the World" puts it very bluntly: "Plainly civilization can no longer survive wars. . . ." and then he goes on: "No other way of preventing war than by international organization is discernible." The choice may lie between cooperation and extinction.

There are a few people who will say: "All right, let them have an international organization. We'll stand by and see how it works, and if it looks good we'll join it."

We'd Better Be There

The time is gone when anay such action was possible—even if it were desirable. Today we are foremost and world affairs and world forces and world responsibilities. We are a great nation. If the world is to have peace, we shall have peace. If the world is to have war, we shall have war. I say we had better have a hand in that decision.

Fifth: We must maintain our armed forces at a level of strength and efficiency at which they can perform any mission they may be given.

The security of the nation—its very survival—is the first mission of the armed services. In the last resort it is they who are charged with making good the politics of government. Nobody wants another war. But everybody knows that one good way to avoid war is to be strong enough to prevent one from starting.

The armed services also have the mission of manning the outposts which guard and protect our interests abroad, that guarantee freedom of the seas and air and perform innumerable peacetime jobs. For some years to come they will be charged with policing the enemy countries which we have occupied to guard the victory.

Study New Weapons

Finally, it is their job to make an unceasing study of new weapons, developments and methods of war. They must be alert to new technological possibilities in many branches of science in addition to warfare. It is the duty of the military establishment not only to study and test and improve these new discoveries, but to keep themselves always in such a state of training that they are ready at any moment to use their knowledge and skills as experts.

I have tried to sketch for you a picture of the world today and to show that it is a new picture, demanding new understanding, and action. This is the background agains which America must take her place in the world and must plan the course that will bring national security. I have given you five points in that course which I believe are of first importance. Let me list them once more:

1. We must put our own house in order.
2. We must clarify and define our course of action in international affairs.
3. We must have knowledge and understanding of the nations and of their ways of thinking and their motives.
4. We must work to establish a world organization.
5. We must see that our armed forces have the means to accomplish their missoins.

"I Am Optimistic"

In many ways the picture which I have presented is dark. There is doubt and mistrust in the world. There are new forces to deal with, both sociological and scientific, which will tax our abilities and wisdom. There are clashes of political objectives which will have to be resolved.

All this is true, and to some people the problems seem to come faster than they can be solved. The future looks pretty disheartening.

I am not disheartened. I am confident and optimistic. I believe in our ability to accept the opportunity which we won in war. I am confident that we can build the kind of world we want.

I believe this, not just because we have faced tough problems before—and licked them—every one of them, from Lexington to Pearl Harbor, but because I believe in America—in her people and in her leadership.

"We'll Win the Peace"

We will determine what courses we are to follow.

We will understand that security is the first basis for all that we want in the future.

We will know that the security of the nation is not the responsibility of government alone; but that it is the responsibility of each one of us, of every American.

We will work together, as we have worked together in the past, in American teamwork. And we will win the peace.
